CREATING A CARING CIRCLE FOR CHILDREN

An Interactive Discussion with

Kerry Kelly Novick& Dr. Jack NovickFor Parents, Grandparents, Teachers and Therapists Working Together

How can we teach children to tolerate frustration, have empathy and become emotionally resilient?

Parents, grandparents, teachers and psychotherapists have always approached these issues, but from different vantage points. In this interactive workshop the Novicks will describe ways to promote optimal child development and facilitate adults working together. Examples of children of different age groups from toddlers to teens will be used. Participants will have the opportunity to clarify shared goals, develop a shared language and ask questions.
